

Configuring Ex Libris SFX Link Resolver for JSTOR: A Quick Reference Guide

The SFX link resolver from Ex Libris uses OpenURL data to provide context-sensitive item-level linking among the various online resources in a library collection. Primo, the Ex Libris discovery service, as well as other discovery services such as Summon and EDS, use your existing SFX link resolver to provide full-text linking from items in the discovery service.

Important Note: This guide has been developed to help libraries configure SFX to most effectively leverage their investment in content on the JSTOR platform. Please follow these guidelines carefully to ensure that all your licensed content on JSTOR is properly surfaced for your users. Our research shows that the appropriate configuration of SFX is an important determinant in the discoverability of the content your library licenses from JSTOR. Further, our research indicates that setting the link ordering priorities to promote JSTOR is the best way to ensure your users connect reliably to JSTOR. We encourage you to strongly consider using this option (described later in the document), as we feel it will provide a quality user experience.

To ensure effective linking to JSTOR content, you will need to activate your licensed JSTOR collections in SFX, and potentially in your discovery service as well.

Activate JSTOR Collections in SFX

Activate the JSTOR collections in your SFX knowledge base to match the collections to which you subscribe.

This is a three-step process:

Step 1: Activate the JSTOR collections (target in SFX terminology) that you subscribe to.

Step 2: Activate the full-text target service for the JSTOR collections you have activated in the first step.

Step 3: Activate the titles (object portfolios in SFX terminology) in each collection.

Each of the JSTOR collections in SFX contains a title list.

JSTOR Archival and Primary Source Collections

1. For each of these collections activated in step 1, you will be asked, after selecting the full-text target service, “Do you want also to switch the activation status of the object portfolios?” Answer: “Yes” to activate the entire title list. As a subscriber to one of these collections you automatically have access to all titles in the collection.
2. New titles that are added to these collections should automatically be activated in SFX. Select the default option “Yes” when prompted for the AutoActive setting in the target service window.

Books at JSTOR Collections and Current Scholarship Program (CSP) Journal Collections

1. For these collections, you will have to activate the titles selectively according to your institutional title holdings. If you license the complete collection, you can activate all titles in the target by clicking “Activate All.” If you only subscribe to a few titles in each collection, search for them in your collection’s title list and activate them individually. If you subscribe to many but not all titles, you can activate all titles and then selectively deactivate those you do not subscribe to. Alternatively, you can use the SFX data loader function to activate titles based on a file of subscribed titles.
2. For these collections, new titles added by JSTOR will not automatically be activated in SFX. The default AutoActive setting in the SFX target service window is “No.” If you license the complete collection then you should change the default setting to “Yes,” so that any new items added will be activated for your library.

Activate JSTOR collections in your discovery service

If you are using an indexed-based library discovery tool such as Ex Libris Primo, ProQuest Summon or EBSCO EDS, then:

1. Ensure all subscribed JSTOR collections are activated in your discovery service.
2. Ensure your SFX holdings are “published” for use by your discovery service. For details on this, see the JSTOR quick reference guide for your discovery service.

Notes on the list:

* Public Library Collections

- Collection I includes all Arts & Sciences collections and the Business IV Collection.
- Collection II includes all archival Life Sciences content on JSTOR (including the Life Sciences Collection and the Ecology & Botany II Collection).
- Collection III includes all primary source collections on JSTOR: Global Plants, Struggles for Freedom in Southern Africa, African Cultural Heritage Sites and Landscapes, and 19th-Century British Pamphlets.

** Early Journal Content is not actually a JSTOR collection. In 2011, JSTOR made journal content published prior to 1923 in the United States, and prior to 1870 elsewhere, freely available to anyone, anywhere in the world. See <http://about.jstor.org/service/early-journal-content-0>.

***Discipline packages of Current Scholarship titles

- In 2011-2013, JSTOR sold collections of Current Scholarship titles aligned to the Arts & Sciences I through XII Archive Collections. JSTOR no longer offers these collections. Discovery partners may retain these as targets if this helps their customers.
- JSTOR continues to offer Current Scholarship titles grouped by discipline. KBART-compliant title lists are at <http://about.jstor.org/content/jstor-title-lists>.

**** No metadata are available at this time.

*****The Sustainability Collections Sets are not comprised of books with publication dates from a given year or given set of years. For example, Sustainability I might have a book with a publication date of 2005. For all other collections (except Sustainability 2), all the books in the set have the publications year or years that are in the name of the set.

*****This is not the name of an actual collection, just a convenient target for libraries who mass order Books at JSTOR.

1) There is no product called “JSTOR Complete”, but some providers add it as a target for the convenience of librarians. We recommend that it not be used, since there is no simple way to define what products would be covered by this label.

2) JSTOR also offers several information services for individuals, which can be seen at <http://about.jstor.org/individuals>. None of these offerings should appear in partners' linking and discovery services.

Ex Libris also offers an SFX Target called "JSTOR Complete". Selecting this target will automatically select ALL JSTOR Archival collections for which there are SFX Targets.
